

Are you ready to move to the Cloud?

Cloud Ready Services

Business needs Technology to be responsive to changes in business landscapes and the speed of response will determine business success or failure. The paradigm of IT delivery is changing. Cloud & as-a-Service delivery models are revolutionising the way IT is developed, built and served to customers. Business expects to pay for what it needs only when it needs it.

The delivery of contemporary Information Technology and building or migrating to, cloud services requires knowledge across the full technology stack, the orchestration opportunities and an understanding of the business value of solutions.

Respiro have been involved in building cloud solutions since 2009 and have experienced all the challenges around:

- Identity
- Orchestration
- Service Definitions
- Service Management
- Billing
- Licensing models.

Resources with our cross-section of skills and experience are hard to find and retain. Respiro can fill that gap, be a long-term partner and you only need to engage them as you need them.

Organisations can use us to position their move to the Cloud or drop-in Respiro consultants to bolster their capabilities to work towards nimble and cost effective IT platforms and services. Where Respiro differs from most consultancies is their experience in building and delivering these platforms; Respiro will be focussing on how to actually get there and how to improve your efficiency.
